

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An authentication device and an authentication method, a program storage medium and an information processing device improve the operability in the user authentication. By comparing the dial password entered by the rotation operation of the jog dial and the dial password registered in advance and conducting the user authentication, the user can enter the dial password intuitively and easily just by operating the jog dial and can make the user authentication be executed.